

In our hands!
Teachers as materials designers
Claudia Ferradas, PhD

When designing your own materials, bear copyright in mind!
(advice taken from the NILE course on Materials Development for Language Education
<https://www.nile-elt.com/courses/course/63>)

Need information about copyright? <http://www.teachingcopyright.org/> (but it's from the USA, and this changes from country to country; check our legislation in each case)

1. Creative Commons

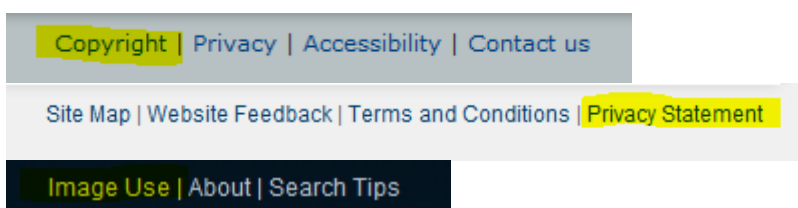

What is it?

<http://creativecommons.org/about/what-is-cc>

What are the different licences?

<http://creativecommons.org/about/licenses>

2. You still need to check

Or Search “copyright” on the site.

3. Finding copyright-free images

How can I search for CC works?

<http://search.creativecommons.org/>

(and Google Advanced search)

And especially for education?

<http://www.oercommons.org/help#finding-resources>

<http://pics.tech4learning.com/>

<https://morguefile.com/>

<http://makerbook.net/>

4. Need to ask?

Look for Contact details on site. Mention:

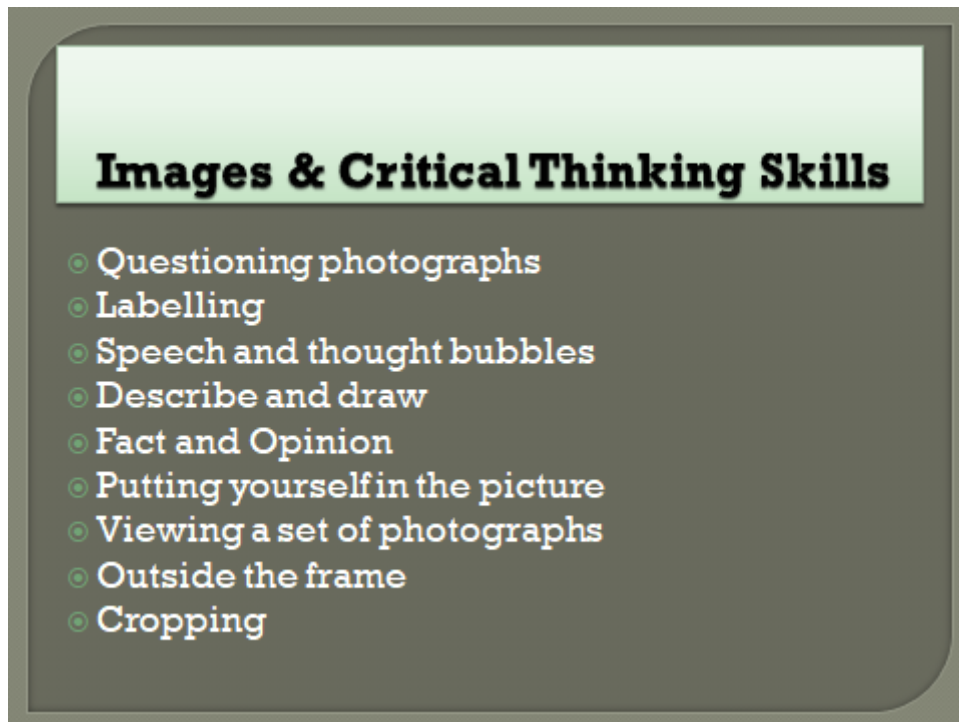

- Educational purposes
- Online?
- Brief description of whole project
- Non commercial?
- Will attribute

5. Or try copyright.free ELT materials
